Teaching Experience

I have tutored students of varying confidence for the 11+ and 13+ who went on to do very well. I understand how important it is with students of this age to keep sessions interesting and fun whilst still being rigorous and informative. I aim to build confidence along with knowledge. My background in philosophy at university has made me very well suited to teach verbal and non-verbal reasoning and I have an A in maths A-level.

I have also helped numerous students from GCSE to University level achieve their grades and develop a love and understanding for their subjects. I have tutored two students through Oxbridge applications, helping them with their personal statements and preparing them for entrance exams and interviews; both were successful.
